Prologue

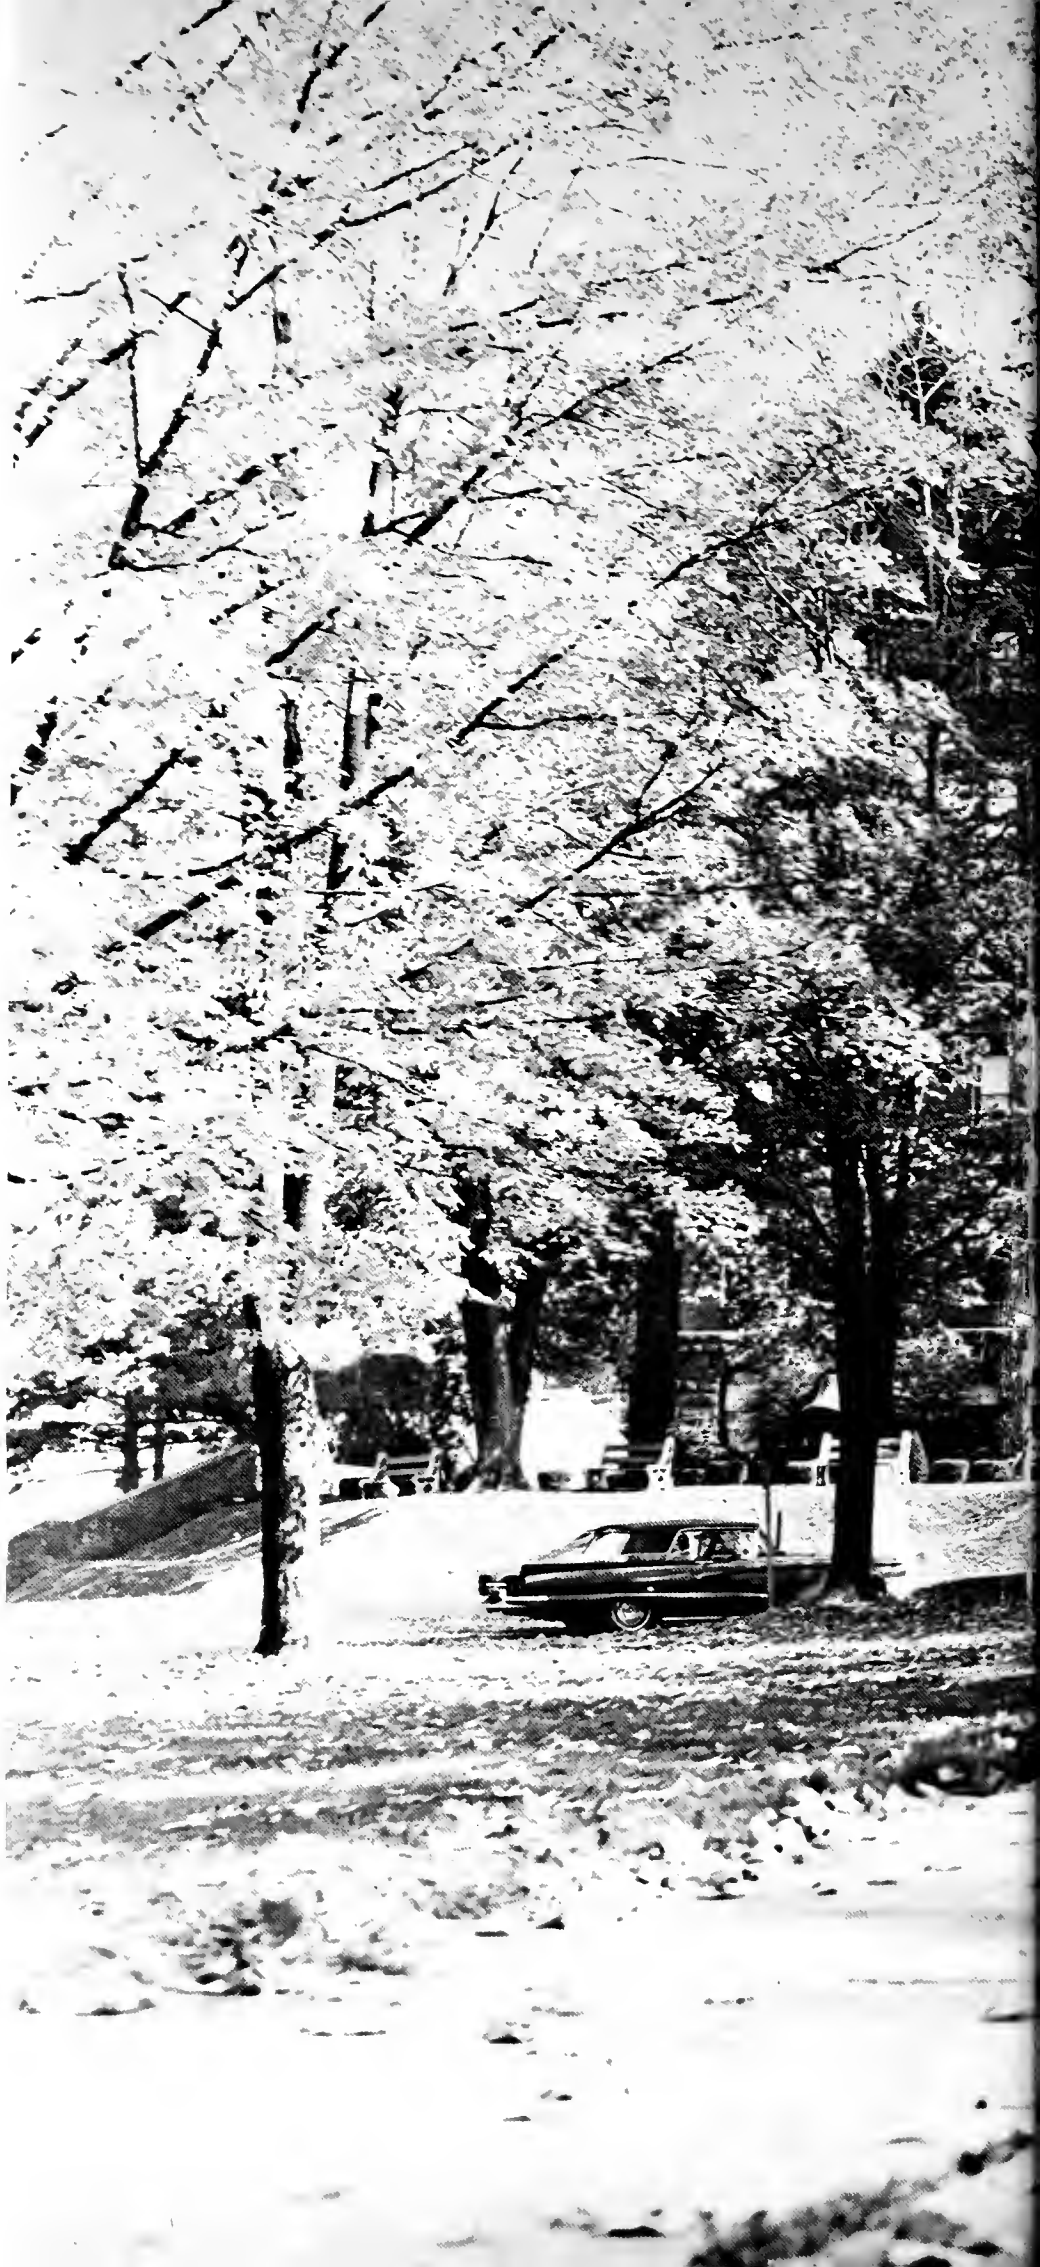

Familiar faces return; the freshmen don their caps and balloons, and the professors sharpen their wits because it's September and a new year at Mansfield State College. September means a hassle with registration lines, lunch lines, and book store lines. The chill in the air turns leaves to gold while the marching band summons students to the football games. College means hang-ups and hang-overs, days and nights, breaks and bad breaks, fun and work, and boys and girls. And Mansfield means frequent trips across the New York State line. What do students at Mansfield expect of college life? Some don't expect much . . . some don't know what to expect . . . and a few know just what they want. Amid the labyrinth of social life we attempt to maintain some semblance of a professional attitude, so we eagerly grab our notebooks and boldly step forward bearing a balance of pragmatic and idealistic beliefs . . . and we hope . . .

President's Message

A yearbook is a kind of memory bank. In it are reminders of life parts. It mellows with time, changing as we age, changing as our perception of self and college change. In that sense it has chameleon-like quality assuming values even the editors can't see at the moment.

In more subtle ways a college annual is a measure of what we might become. Leadership roles, the display of talent, the indicators of academic acumen—these, reported as the present may be footnotes to the future.

I wish for Carontauan, 1969, that the editors have selected content to remind us of what we are now, and the potential in us. If they are successful in these choices, this book will be a source of inspiration as well as a memorable historical piece.

A Year on the Hill

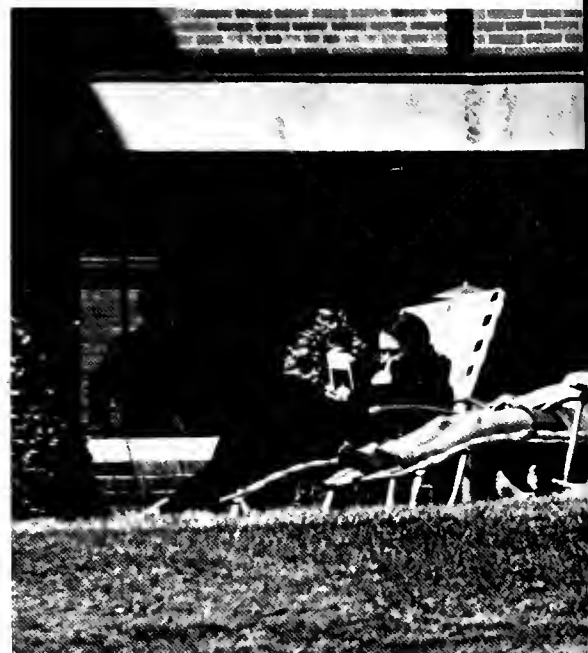

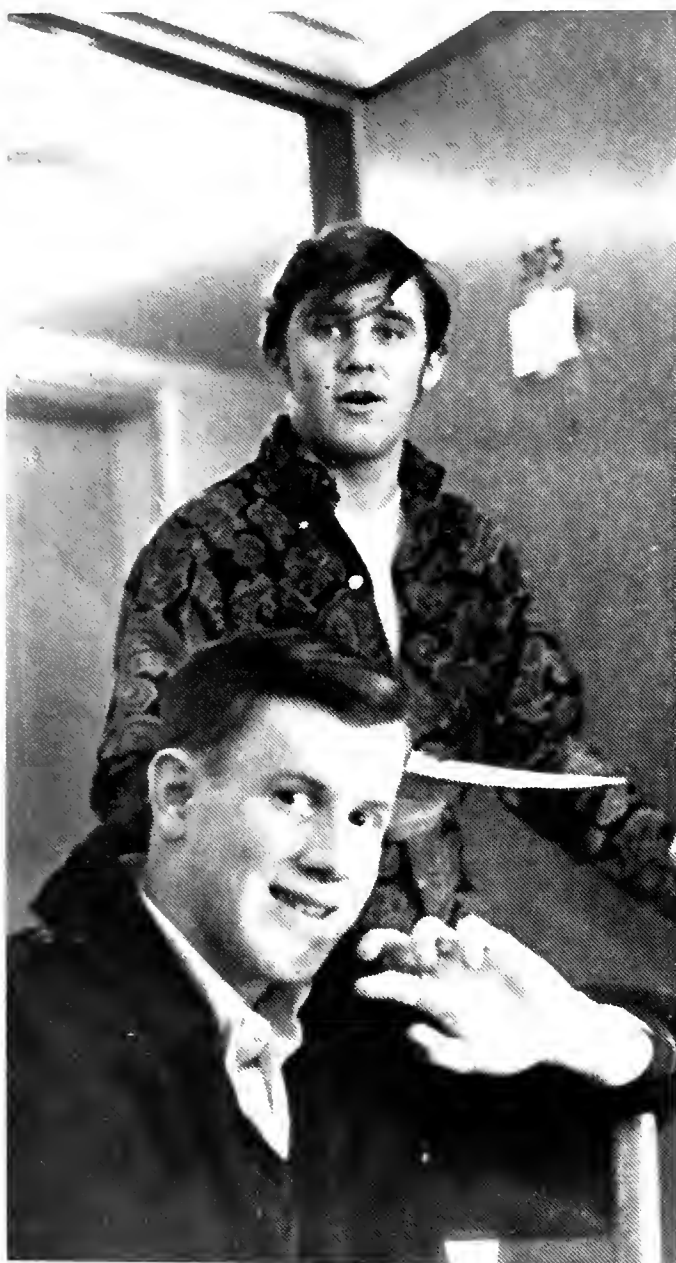

*The moods of our campus,
instigated by the individuals,
the activity, the challenge,
and the beauty are all a result of what is distinctively
Mansfield State College.*

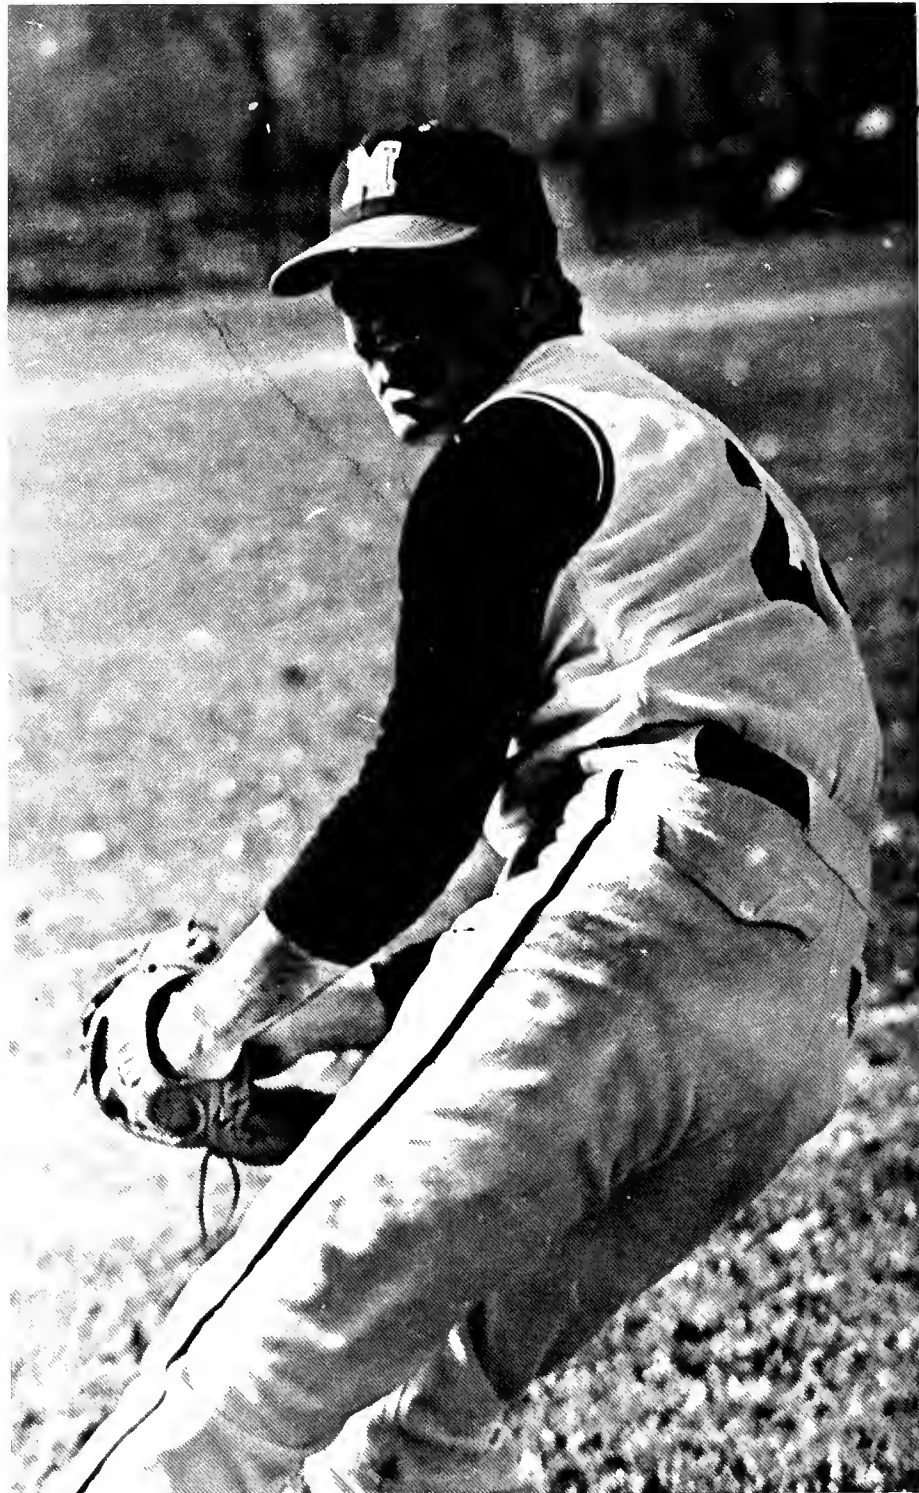

Activity during leisure hours builds important character aspects.

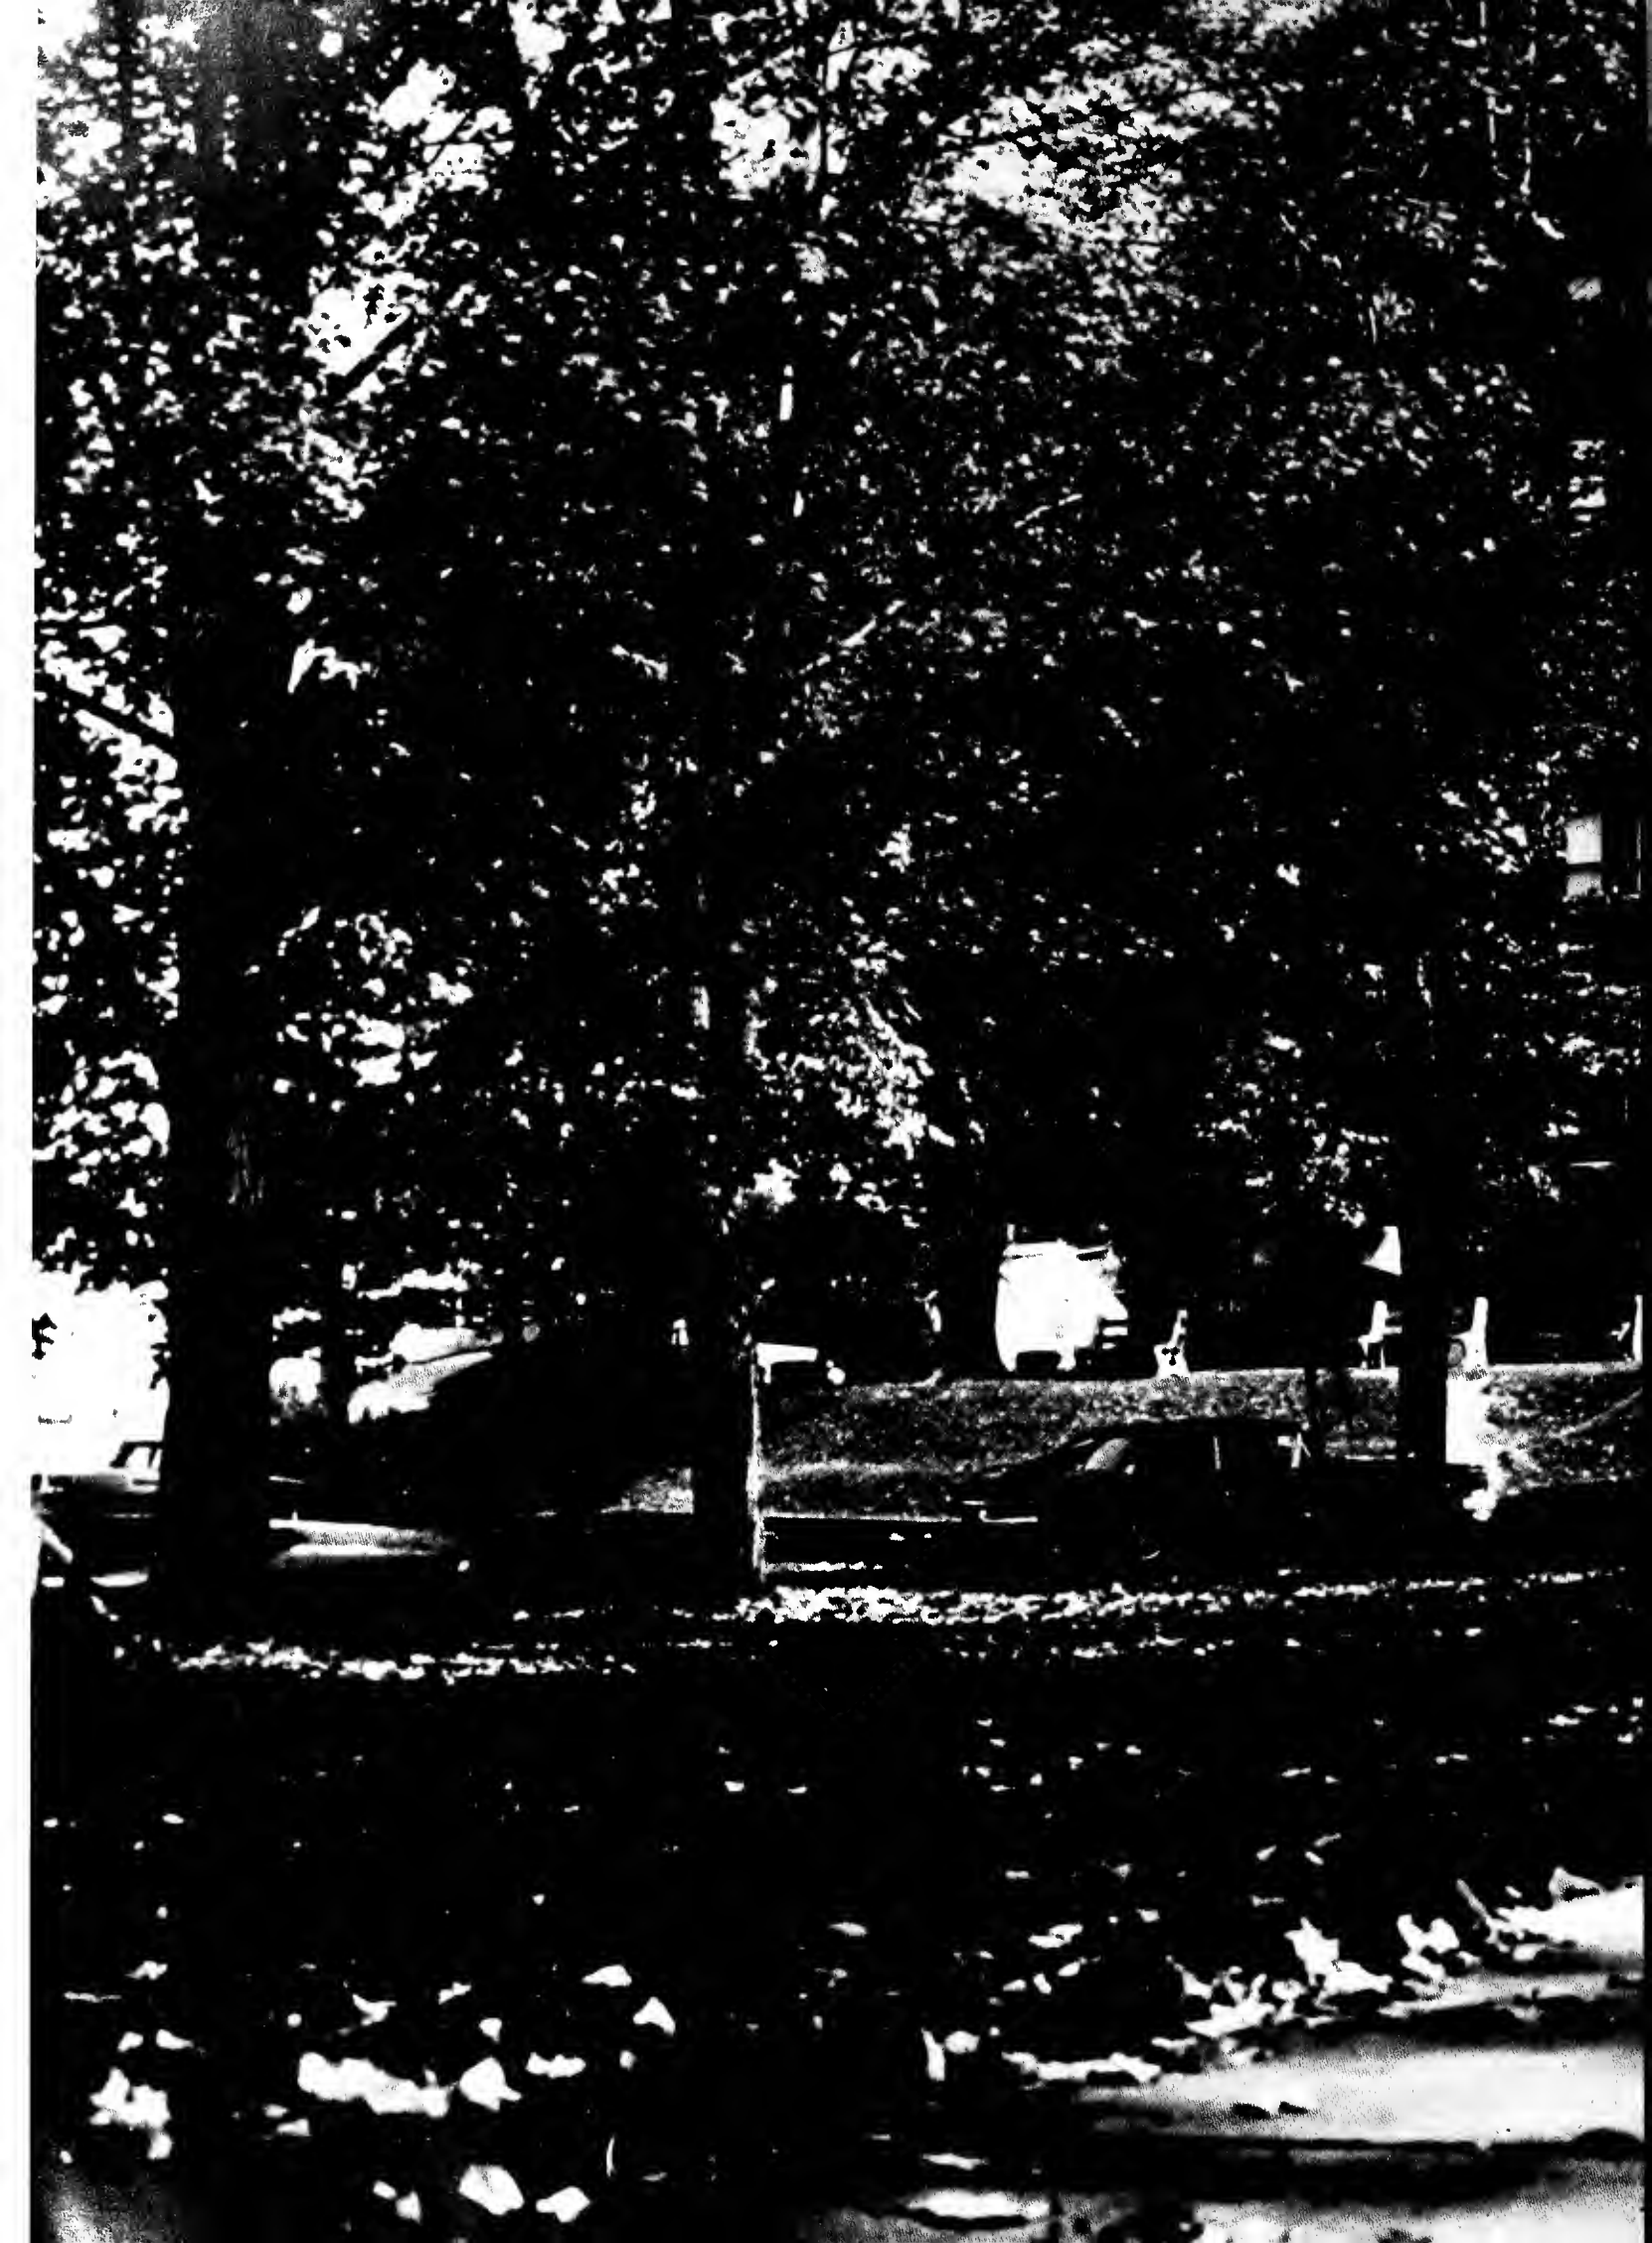

Many scenes and objects, typical only of the college campus, are passed unnoticed because of their familiarity. Yet they can never be recalled in any other phase of our lives. They are soon forgotten, and that which was most common, is gone forever.

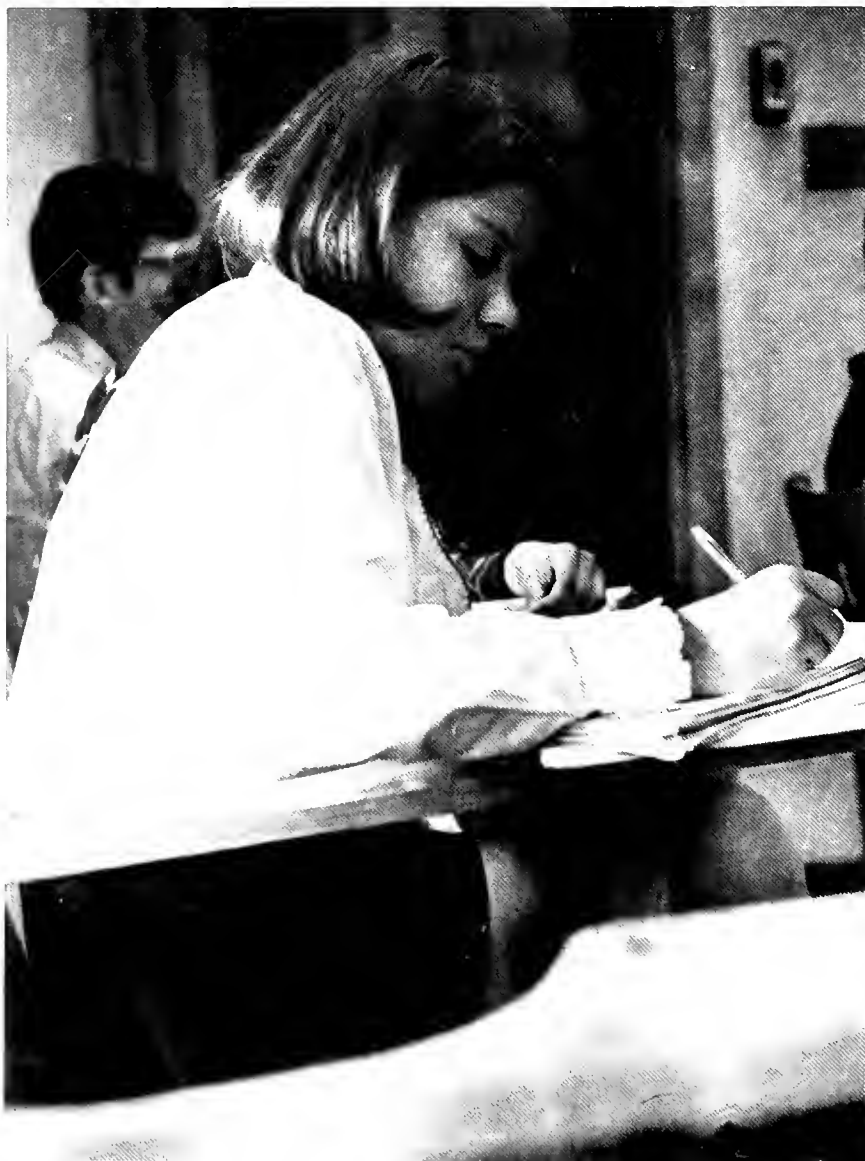

DRINKING SEEKERS

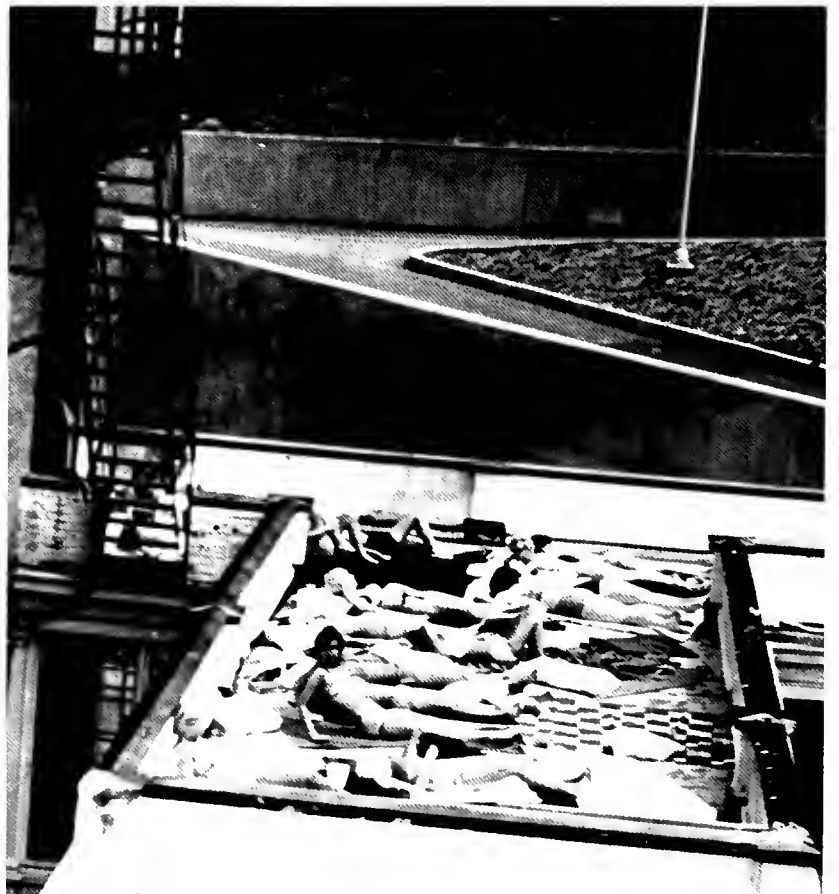

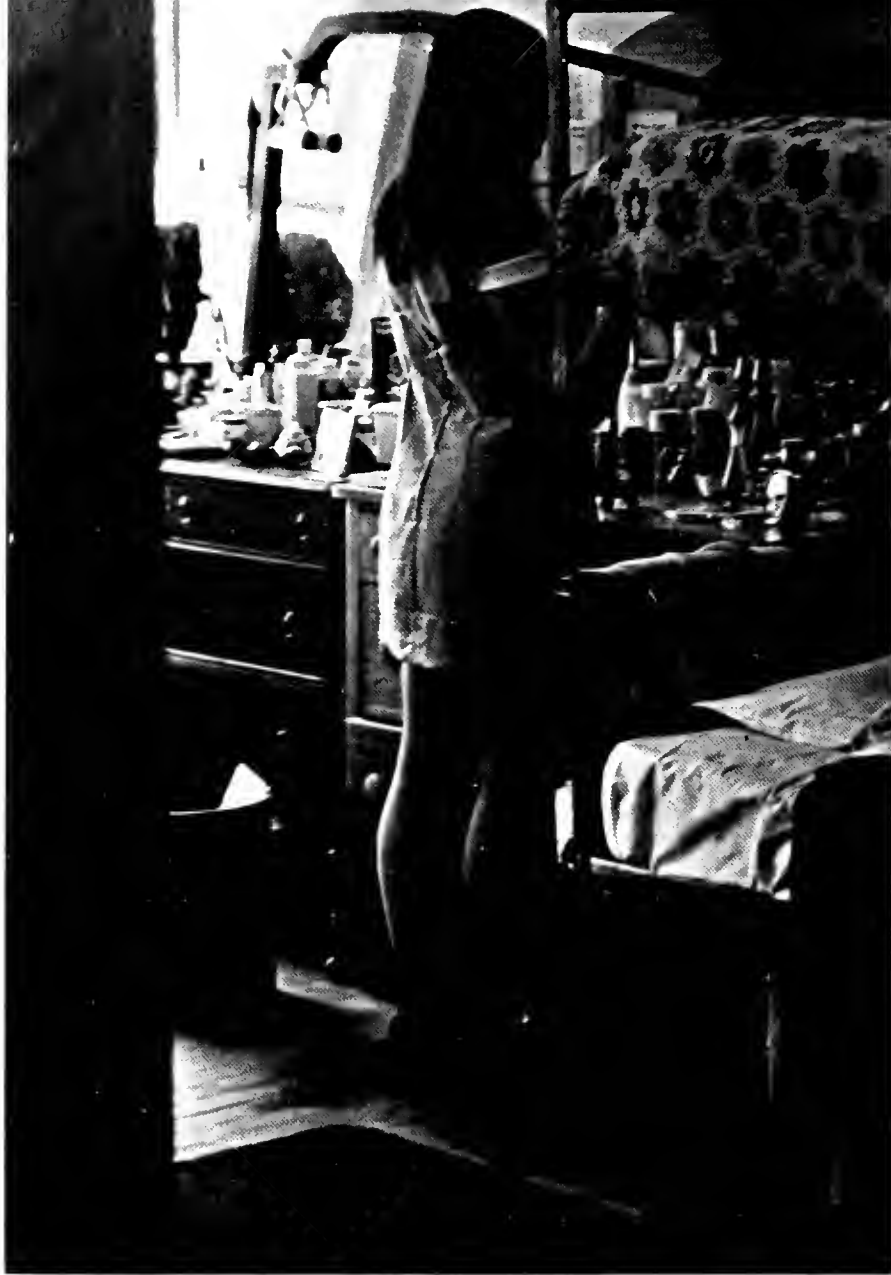

College life is filled with confrontations which are followed by the fulfilling sense of accomplishment. And there are those moments when we cannot find ourselves, when we feel that we are being manipulated by the establishment. But through all our academic contemplation, we take time to be ourselves and to seek our own relaxation.

BOARD OF HEALTH

President Park crowned Miss Linda Graham Homecoming Queen of Mansfield State College during the half-time festivities of Mansfield's victorious game over Millersville. Preceding the game, the annual Homecoming Parade showed many imaginative floats, the labors of campus organizations. Cathy Morrell, Ruth Irons, Nancy Kirkpatrick, Joy Matthews, Judy Snyder, Janet Socash, Judy Knepp, and Delmar Ratkowski were members of the court.

The Inauguration

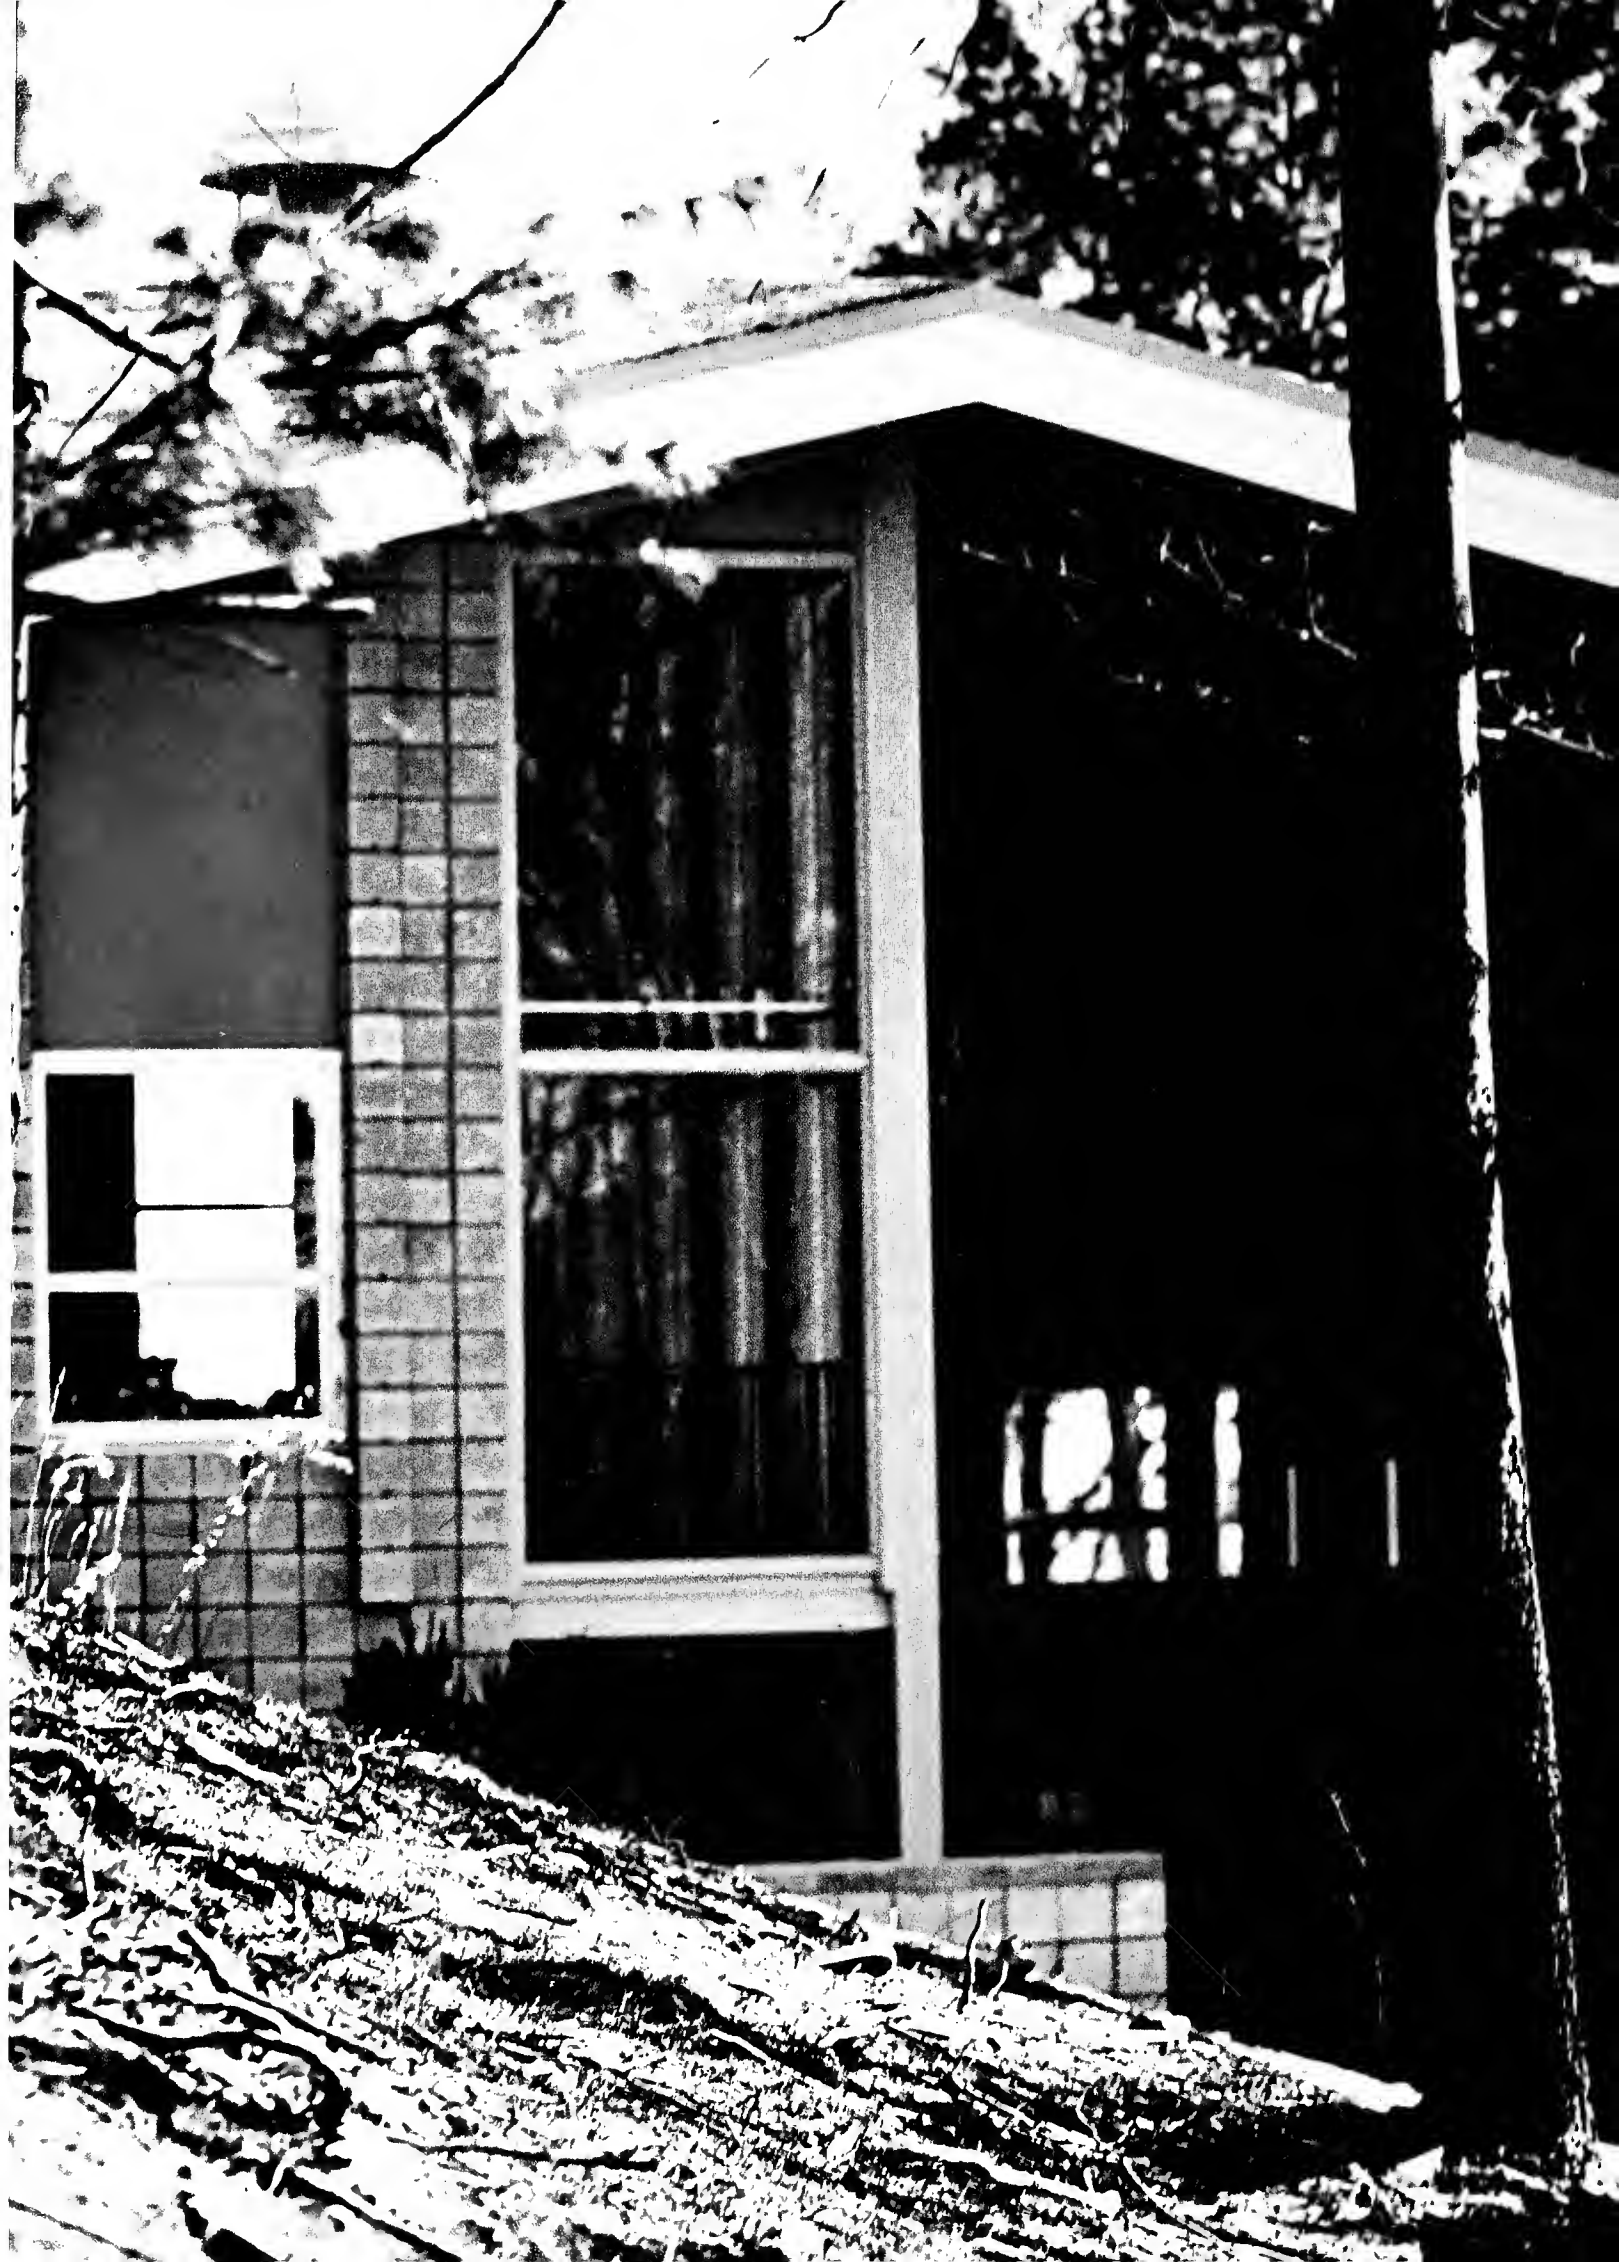

April 26 was a solemn and festive occasion for the students and faculty of Mansfield State College. In Straughn Auditorium Dr. Kurtzmann, Superintendent of Public Instruction, administered the oath of office to Dr. Lawrence Park. The inaugural ball, with music by the Esquires, was held to honor our new President.

identity

Through the morning fog, books in arm, car keys jangling, troop the Day Students. Their familiar faces give day-time life to the Hut, the Library, and North Hall.

The campus provides a quiet atmosphere for companionship and for solitude. But as our student population expands, many of our favorite quiet spots must give way to campus construction to accommodate our growing needs.

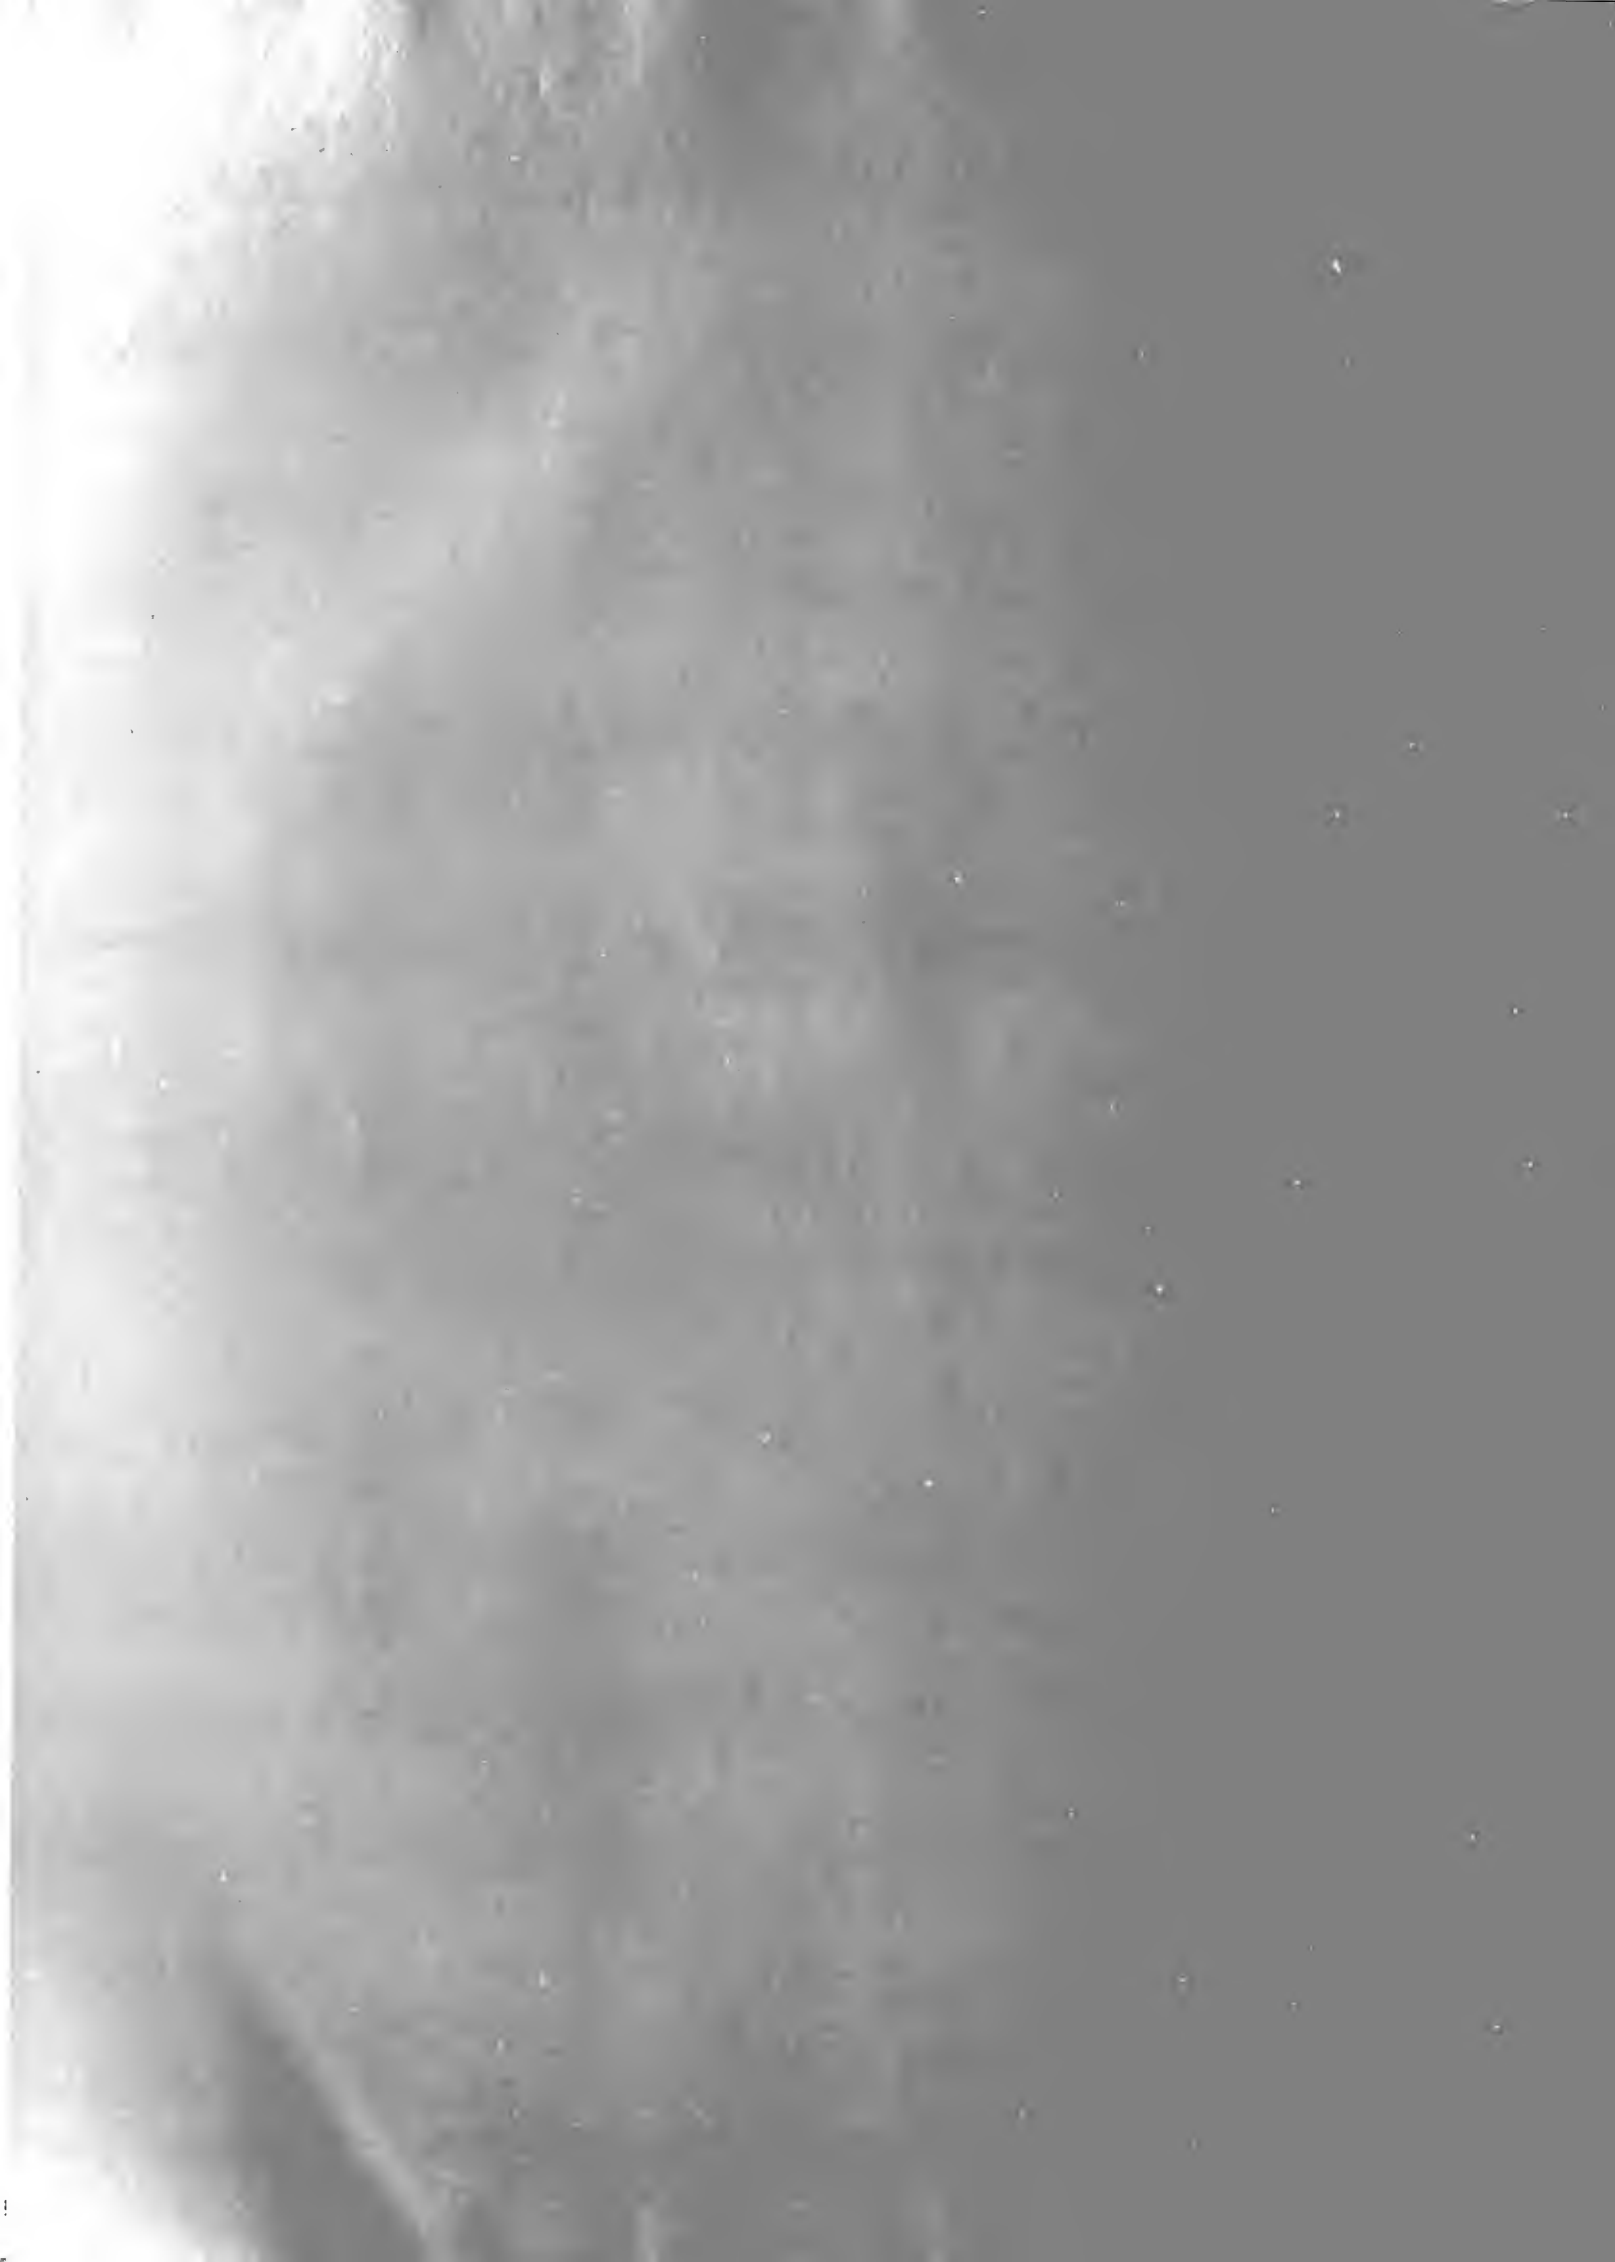

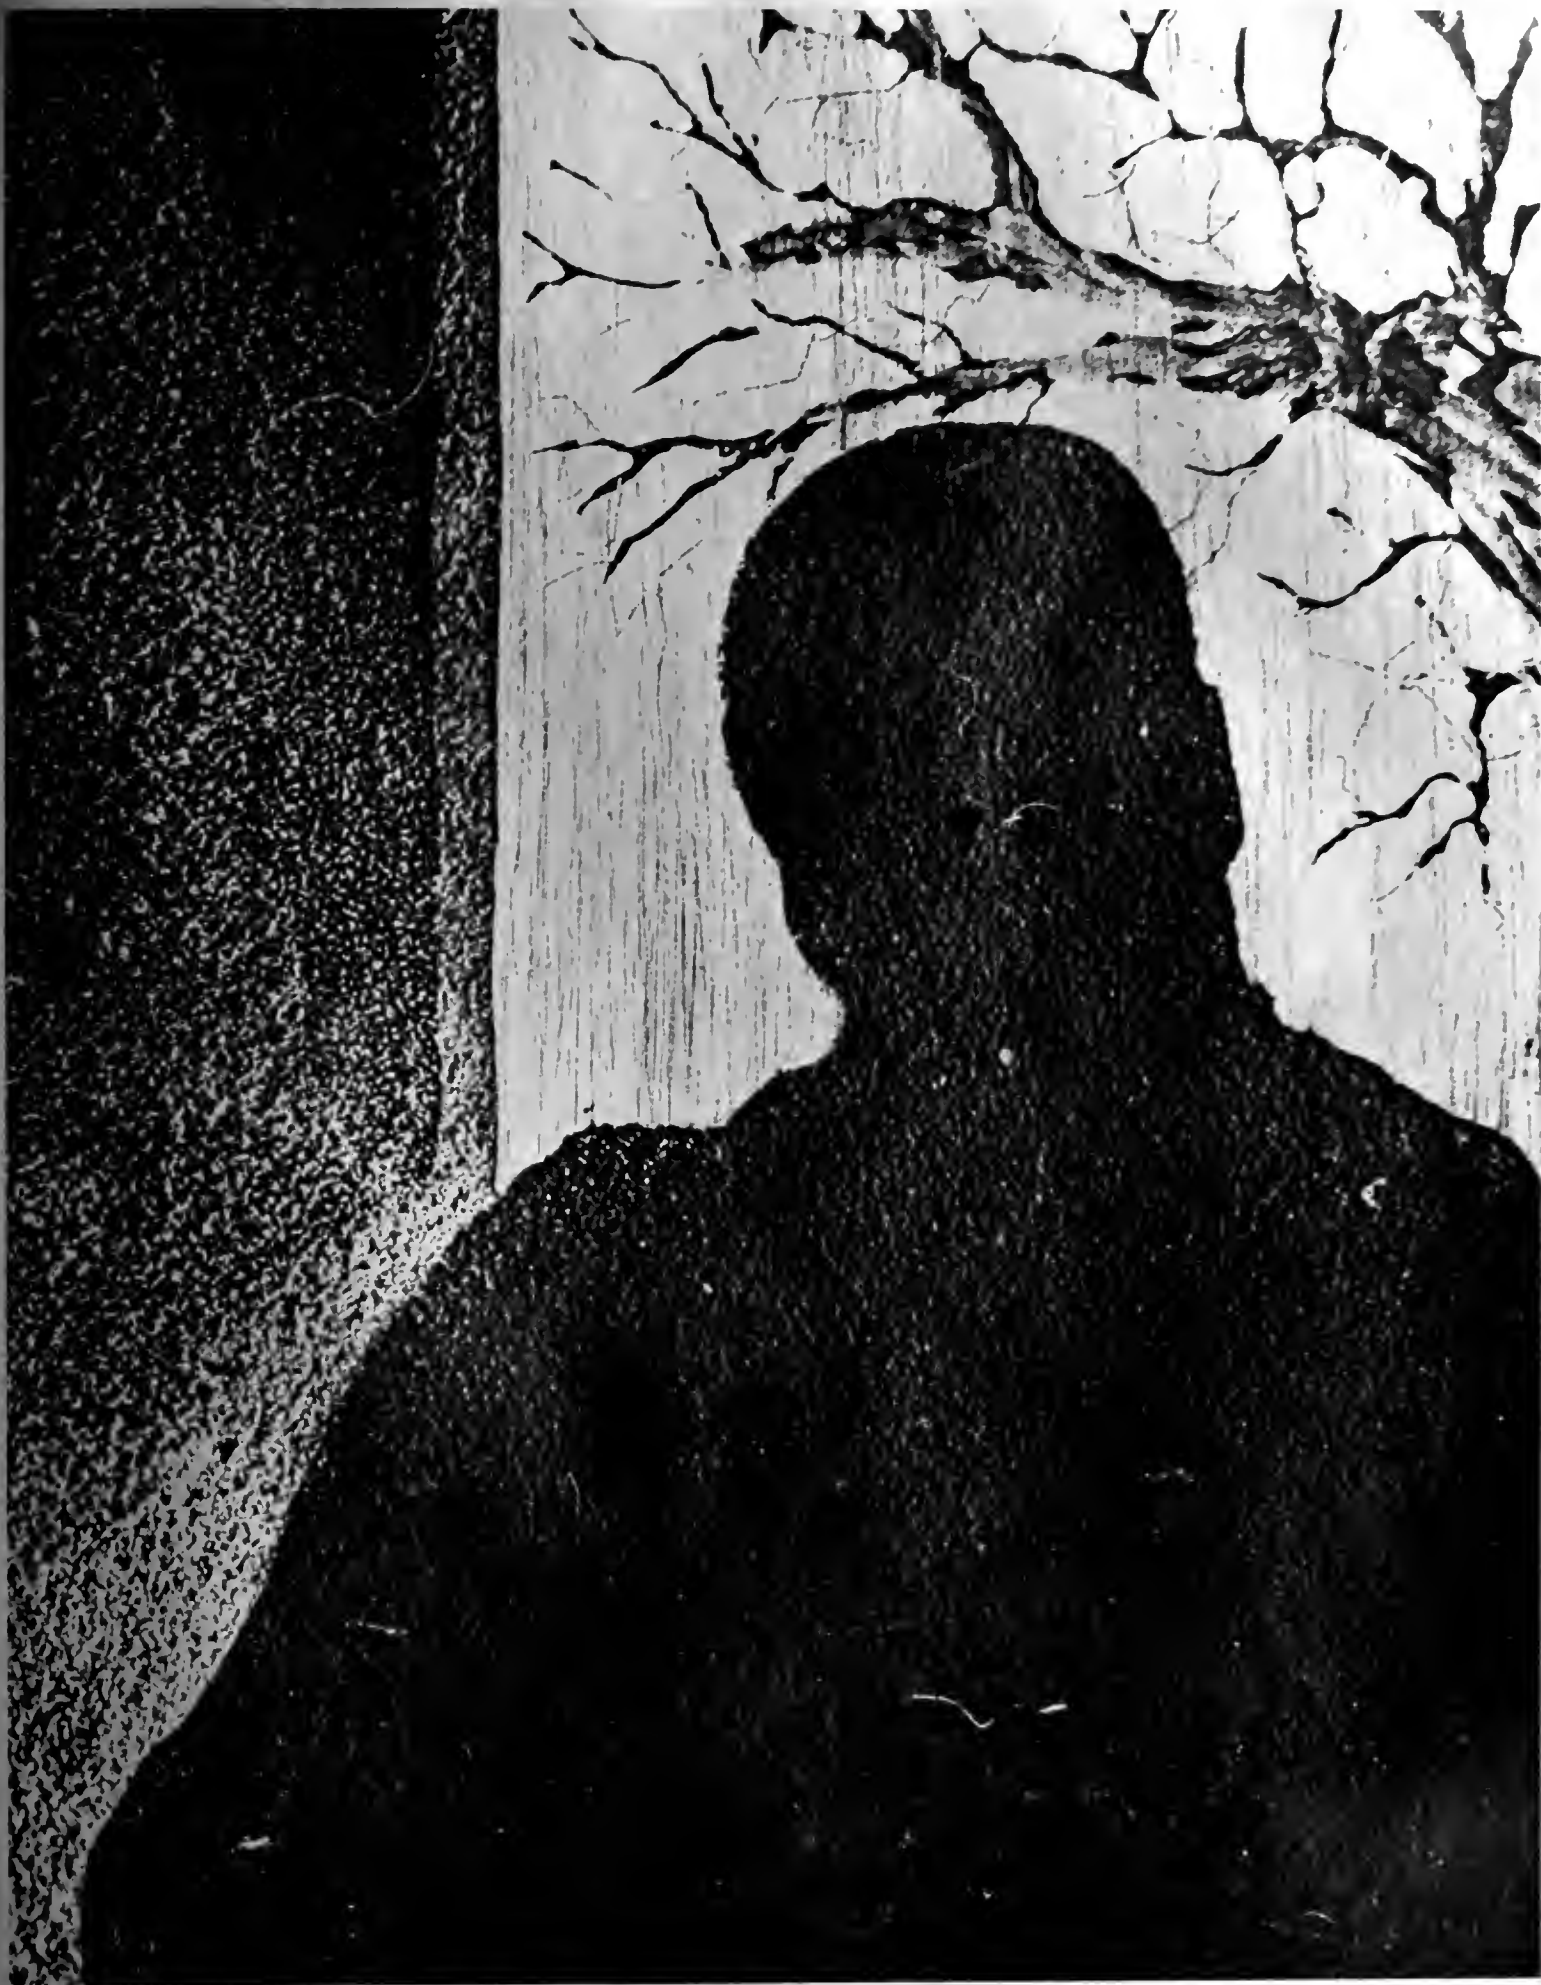

Mansfield's first outdoor commencement was held at Van Norman Field May 29, 1969. Before faculty, parents, and friends President Park conferred the degrees.

Thank You

There are many persons whom we would like to thank and many whom we would like not to thank. The 1969 Carontawan Staff is grateful to some very special persons who made this publication possible. Our deepest appreciation goes to Dr. Mildred M. Miller, Mr. Alfred Kjelgaard, and Mrs. Esther Jones, our advisors, who were always ready to dig in and help us with whatever needed to be done. A special thanks to Mr. Geiss, Mr. Beck, and Bob Lugg for our color photographs. We wish to acknowledge and thank our two fine student photographers, Gordon Mann and Bob Lugg, without whom the Carontawan would be greatly lacking. And to all those administrative persons who helped us at a moment's notice, thank you.

To all who made this 1969 Carontawan a reality, our sincere thanks.

The Carontawan Staff

Epilogue

The all-too-brief seasons have passed. Deserted sidewalks and empty chambers still echo the sounds of a college in full swing. Familiar faces are gone. Only in fantasy can be seen the silhouettes of those struggling minds who roamed the torn and muddy streets and climbed the mountain terrain to make a class, to see a face, to touch a hand, or to pursue parodies of knowledge.

Only in memory can be seen the grasp at life's intricacies that has been made by struggling students, inebriated with life, seeking meaning in each contorted occurrence, in each fleeting moment, in the springtime days, the water tower, the bright lobbies, the green lawns, the side streets, and in the carillon bells.

Amidst the labyrinth of life, a search has been made for meaning.
